TO ESTABLISH BUILDING LINES.

Authority Granted the Commissioner in the Case of Narrow Streets.

The report of the House District committee on House bill 10106, relating to building lines in the District of Columbia, has been submitted to the House by Chairman Babcock. Quoting a letter from the District Commissioners, the report says: "During past years, on a number of occasions, citizens of the District have desired to establish building lines upon some of the narrow streets where the lots were deep, It is evident that, without compulsory legislation, where one or two residents in a block refuse to accede to such building lines the efforts of the remaining property owners are in vain, since it is necessary that all the buildings in one square should be on one line. Hence in a number of instances efforts made by owners to establish building lines have proved abortive through the lack of co-operation of one "On a number of streets in the northwest section of the city building lines have been established along a portion of a street by the concurrence of the land owners, and the streets, though narrow, present a handstreets, though narrow, present a hand-some appearance, with ample width of roadway, sidewalk and parking; while a lew squares farther along, where the property owners did not establish such line, the appearance of the street and its sanitary ponditions is badly marred. The bill submitted is designed to remedy this condition s believed that the establishment of the building line would work no hardship to the land owners. But there are instances of corner lots where the establishment of building lines on two streets abutting would lake away so much of the land as to render the remainder of the lot unavailable for building purposes, and in such cases the owner of said lots should receive compensation. It is believed the bill is a desirable one, and that its operation would be at-tended by no cost to the District of Colum-bia or to the United States."

The bill provides that the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are anthorized to establish building lines on streets or parts of streets less than ninety feet wide in the District of Columbia, upon the pre-sentation to them of a plat of the street or a portion of the street upon which such action is desired, showing the lots and the names of the record owners thereof, and accompanied by a petition of the owners of one-half of the real estate shown on the plat requesting that building lines be established, or when the commissioners shall certify that public headth, comfort or convenience requires that such building lines be established.

The bill provides regulations for awarding damages caused by the change in lines.

Some of the men slept under canvas and some of them had the dark blue sky for a covering. This is now a real army camp, quite different from the camp of the THE LATE ARRIVALS

District of Columbia National Guard at Fort Washington. The men have had many experiences in training camps, but none like this one. Now they work with earnestness. All of them know that promotions are to be made from the ranks up. The men understand thorthe ranks up. The men understand thoroughly that Col. Harries will be just in all of his appointments should it be necessary to fill a vacancy, and that all have an equal chance of proving themselves worthy of promotion.

The Dress Parade.

The dress parade of yesterday afternoon was one of the most successful that has been had since the camp was established. Celonel Harries commanded the regiment. Every officer and private was present or accounted for. For one to witness the one of yesterday and the first dress parade, it would be hard to recognize the men as those who came here hardly a week ago. The residents of the District of Columbia have every reason to be proud of their representation in the camp. It is the opin-ion of those qualified to judge that the Dis-trict volunteers make the best showing of any of the regiments that have arrived at Camp Alger, and the District quota is the best equipped. The District contingent is impatient for

THUNDER STORMS.

Partly Cloudy Weather and Probably Showers Tomorrow.

Forecast till 8 p.m. Saturday.-For the District of Columbia, eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, thunder storms tonight, partly cloudy weather and probably showers Saturday; south to west winds. For Virginia, partly cloudy weather and scattered thunder storms tonight and probably Saturday; southwesterly winds.

Weather conditions and general forecast. The pressure has risen in the lake regions and over most of the west. A center of high pressure lies north of the lakes, and a second area of high pressure covers the south Atlantic and east guif states. A belt of low pressure extends from New England across the lower lake region and central Mississippi valley to the southwest.

The weather is nearly clear on the midcle and south Atlantic and cast gulf coasts; elsewhere east of the Rocky mountains it is cloudy. Showers have failen during the past twenty-four hours in the north Atlantic states, lower lake region, the Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

The temperature has risen in the middle and north Atlantic states and fallen in the upper lake region. Conditions are favorable for thunder storms this afternoon and tonight in New England, the middle Atlantic states, the Ohio and central Mississippi valleys. Fair weather will probably follow in New England Saturday, but it will remain unsettled and showery in the middle states and Ohio valley. Fair weather will continue in the south Atlantic states and partly cloudy weather in the lower Mississippi valley and west gulf states, with showers in the interior.

The most dusty troops of the camp put in an appearance between 10 o'clock and 2 England Saturday and possibly in the middle Atlantic states. The following heavy precipitation (in

THE HIGHEST POINT

Washington Sweltering Under First Touch of Summer.

What Caused It All and How Long It Will Last-Over the Country.

Washington is just now sweltering under the first real touch of summer weather, a reminder of what may be expected in the near future in the way of overflowing thermometric tubes. This afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the mercury at the weather bureau registered 92 degrees, the highest point the thermometer has reached this year. The weather was very hot, the only relief afforded those thrown under the sun's rays being in a light, variable wind from the The author of these adventures, startling southern quarter. There is no immediate prospect for a let up in the hot spell, for the conditions throughout the east and south are typical hot-weather conditions for Washington.

The extremely warm weather of a few days past will culminate tonight, if the prognostications of the weather bureau do not go awry, in a cooling thunder storm not go awry, in a cooling thunder storm that promises temporary relief at least. The indications are that tomorrow will be cloudy and showery, so the weather bureau promises that for two days at least Washington may expect a somewhat lower thermometer. The prospects are, however, that with the exception of these tempering showers, the hot weather will continue for some time.

This morning at 6:30 o'clock the thermometer was lower than at any time within the past twenty-four hours, registering but 69 degrees. From that hour, however, up to 2 o'clock the temperature gradually continued to rise until the ninety-second mark on the scale was reached. It was expected that this would be the highest temperature of the day, for with increasing cloudiness during the afternoon will again send the mercury down a few points.

Officially, the cause of all the hot weather is a low barometric pressure off the southeastern coast and the southeastern states, including Florida, with a low pressure of the country of t sure in the lake region. This condition sends the hot draughts of air directly over the middle Atlantic states, continuing up as high as New England. So long as this condition exists, the weather bureau official dealers by cials declare hot weather will continue in Washington. There is no sign of a break in the prevailing conditions, and therefore the officials of the bureau will not hazard a guess as to the duration of the present

Washington is not alone in suffering from the hot weather, for the warm wave is prevalent throughout the middle Atlantic region and all of New England. High tem- French. eratures were reported this morning from all weather stations in the New England all weather stations in the New England states, temperatures remarkably high for that region at this time of year. At Northport as early as 8 o'clock this morning the mercury was at the 80 mark and rising. Through the states of Pennsylvania and New York and in Virginja the weather is reported fully as warm as here in Wash-

Up to the present time Washington has experienced but little heat, the spring being one of remarkably cool weather. The suddenness of the present spell is its danger. The weather is nothing unusual, but coming all at once after a season of chilly days and nights, it finds a people unpre-pared for the summer ordeal. Winter clothes are as yet in common use, thus making humanity all the more uncomfort able under hot weather conditions and also making one more susceptible to cold.

THE CASE OF THE POLARIA.

Under the President's Proclamation Passengers Will Be Landed at Havans There appears to be a mistaken impression touching the attitude our government has assumed in the matter of the German merchant steamer Polaria, now at Key West awaiting permission to cross the blockade lines into Havana harbor. Her case is not exceptional, inasmuch as the government gave its consent only to the landing in Havana of certain passengers on the steamer who boarded her at Hamburg, Germany, April 6 last, some time before the outbreak of war between the United States and Spain, and long before the issue of the declaration of war. The President's proclamation of the blockade contemplated the exemption from interference of foreign vessels cleared before the date of proclamation. In conformity with the general principle, the State Department saw no reason why passengers shipped under such conditions as those on the Polaria at Hamburg should be prevented from continuing their journey. As for the British correspondent, Mr. Knight, who is awaiting permission to enter Havana, passing the blockade on a neutral ship, our government is under certain obligations to him by reason of his efforts to arrange for an exchange of prisoners.

These efforts, by the way, have succeeded, and Col. Cortijo and Surgeon Julian, now at Fort McPherson, Ga. are to be exchanged for the programmer man Them! changed for the newspaper men, Thrall and

The Department of State has received the following telegram on the subject from Alex. Gallan, British consul general at Ha-"All arranged. You can send prisoners at erce. Please wire ine day and hour de-parture Key West and probable arrival off Havana. Immediately flag is discerned Spanish steamer with Thrall and Jones will Spanish steamer with Thrall and Jones will be sent out to meet and exchange."

Promptly upon the receipt of a copy of this telegram Secretary Alger signed an order directing the commanding general of the department of the gulf to have the Spanish prisoners taken to Key West and turned over to the commandant of the naval station there for further orders. Accompanied by a small guard, the two men will be taken to Tampa and thence by water to Key West, when arrangements will be made for the trip to Havana and the subsequent exchange of the two men for the American correspondents. the American correspondents.

STORAGE FOR ANYTHING "STORABLE" We have storage room and furnish protection for anything-no matter what it is-from a trunkful of valuable family plate up to all the chattels and goods included in the largest household. These buildings were designed, built, equipped and officered for storage purposes. They are as ABSOLUTE-LY FIREPROOF as man can make them-from the roof cornice to the cellar floor. The walls are of cement-the floors are of stone, and in every possible instance the doors are of iron or else faced with iron. Fire CAN-can-furnish better facilities or cheaper rates than we.

No concern-anywhere-at any time-ever could-or ever

NOT get a start or a foothold here. These buildings (most convenient location of any storage firm in town)-are protected by every device the skill and ingenuity of man can suggest-to guard against roguery—fire or the elements. As to these protective measures - there are day and night watchmen, time clocks, thermostatic fire alarms, burglar alarms and a system of anti-burglar measures that makes this house as safe a place for depositing chattels as the United States treasury. We ask only $2 a month per room, and from that up to $15. Boxes in safe deposit vaults for as low as $2.50 a

Albert M. Read, General Manager. C A sign that P Youth Knows

One of the first signs that a child learns is the $ mark. But how many years does it take him to learn the value of a dollar? Teach him now—"what the youth learns the man practices," start a bank account—here—where $1 will make him a full-fieldged depositor. Our stamps saving system—utilizes the nickels and dimes. 3 per cent interest paid.
